THREE HIGHLY RESPECTED CITIZENS PASS AWAY GRIM REAPERS VICTIMS

Mrs. W. Dudley Wallingford Stricken With Paralysis.

G. M. RUSSELL DIES IN MISSOURI

Mrs. James Gilbert Succumbs After Lingering Illness of Consumption.

Mrs. Ophelia Jane Wallingford was stricken with paralysis at her home here Saturday morning, Jan. 9th, 1909, at 9 o'clock and died three hours later, surrounded by her family and friends whom she recognized to the last. The summons coming thus sudden was a cruel blow to her devoted family, on all of whom she lavished the wealth of a mother's love at all times. Rejoicing her delicate health her husband and daughters have been very solicitous of her for many months and have done every thing thought could suggest for her comfort and pleasure. Mrs. Wallingford was a devout Christian having professed faith in Christ in girlhood and united with the Methodist church in this city, and has lived a consistent Christian life ever since.

She was born June 12th, 1849, and was married June 12th, 1867, on her twenty-fourth birthday, to W. D. Wallingford who survives her and was the mother of six children three of whom died in infancy and three of whom survive and live in Marion, being Mrs. James Kolinsky, wife of Judge Herman Kolinsky, Rochester and Mrs. Margaret Noggle, wife of Clayton Percy Noggle of the Ohio Valley Coal & Coke Company, of Delkoven.

Mrs. Wallingford was a daughter of the late W. N. Rochester, Sr., and is survived by two brothers, Judge J. G. and W. N. Rochester, and two sisters, Mrs. J. W. Johnson and Mrs. P. A. Howerton all of whom live here and in this vicinity. Mrs. Wallingford was a woman of elegant manners and queenly bearing and was thought by some who did not know her well to be reserved but her close friends and those who knew her best will testify to her amiable and lovable personality. One friend (who at first did not understand her quiet and dignified way which with her was perfectly natural) called her "Queen Victoria" which title always amused her very much.

Her remains were kept in the home, she had graced for forty years and where she had presided with love, until Monday afternoon, when at 2:30 the funeral was preached by Rev. J. B. Adams, and the interment was conducted at the New Cemetery. On the new made mound was laid by loving hands many floral offerings, one a pillow, emblematic of the Sweet Rest in which she was slumbering, one an anchor symbolic of the faith on which she anchored her hopes one a cross which mutely said "I have no more I bring simply to Thy cross I cling."

Col. G. M. Russell, the veteran newspaper man, who, for many years, was a member of The Press force, died at the home of his son, George M. Russell, at Dunweiz, Mo., Thursday, January 7, 1909, and his remains were brought here Sunday and interred in the family burial lot at the New Cemetery.

Gervie M. Russell was born at Frankfort, Ky., February 21, 1833, and united with the Presbyterian church in childhood. He was related to many of the most prominent and influential of the older families of Frankfort and other parts of Kentucky. At the age of eighteen he was editor of the Frankfort Yeoman, at that time the leading Democratic paper in Kentucky. He served in the Confederate army during the civil war.

His first marriage was to Miss Rebecca, of Frankfort, Ky., who died within a few years after their marriage. After the death of his wife he traveled over the country as a printer. At that time printers were scarce, well paid and wages good. He was married a second time to Miss Mary A. Mansfield, at Mansfield, Ohio. At that time he was editor of a Republican paper, and it was his paper that first mentioned the name of Charles H. Grosvenor. "The Sage of Athens," as a candidate for Congress. Col. Russell and Congressman Grosvenor were very warm personal friends and up to a few years ago corresponded frequently.

Col. Russell came to Marion in 1885 and was employed as a compositor on the Crittenden Press, and during R. C. Walker's term as postmaster he did considerable writing for the paper. He bought a little farm in the Freedom neighborhood, three miles west of Marion, and walked six miles a day and set all of the type for the Press, at that time a seven column folio. He has lived in Marion the greater part of the time since 1885. He would leave occasionally and go West to start a paper, but would soon return to Marion. He edited papers at Phoenix and Gila Bend Arizona, Vernon Hill, Texas, Webb City, Missouri, Vienna, Ill., Sturgis, Ky., and the Gazette at Marion. He possessed great ability as a writer and was an honest, upright man.

Col. Russell's second wife having died in 1896, he was some years later married a third time to Mrs. M. E. Davis, of Gladstone, who survives him.

Col. Russell left Marion in the summer of 1906 to make his home with his son, at Dunweiz, Missouri. On July, 4, 1907, he was crippled in a street car accident at Joplin, Missouri, and since that time he has been able to work very little. Last December he was taken ill and gradually grew worse until the end came at 9 o'clock on Thursday morning, January 7, 1909.

Col. Russell had very many warm friends in Marion and always said that the best people on earth lived in this city and in Crittenden county, and it was his request that his remains be brought here for interment. The funeral services at the grave were conducted by Rev. M. K. Miller, pastor of the Baptist church of this city. The minister paid an impressive tribute to the memory of the departed and many friends following the remains to their resting place.

Mrs. Alice Ann Gilbert, wife of our fellow townsman J. G. Gilbert, passed away Saturday afternoon, Jan. 9th, 1909, at 4:30 p. m., after suffering from the ravages of that dread malady consumption, for a long and dreary year, lured on by the hope which that disease holds out to its victims even unto the last.

Mrs. Gilbert lived and died a Christian, she professed when a girl and united with the church at Mt. Zion, removing her membership to the M. E. church south here about ten years ago.

Mrs. Gilbert was born, Oct. 25th, 1855, and was a daughter of John Walt Cook and his wife, (Zerelda Clinton,) one brother, Fred Cook, of Mattoon, survives her also two half brothers, George, of Mattoon, and John Walter, of Texas and two half sisters, Mrs. Mary Cooper, of Caseyville, and Mrs. Ella Lucas, of Mattoon.

She was married, Feb. 14th, 1877, to J. G. Gilbert, who with two children, Dr. L. E. Gilbert, of Lisman, and Mrs. Robert Fisk, of Paducah, survives her.

The remains were buried in the Cook burying ground at Mt. Zion Sunday afternoon.

COMMITTEE APPOINTED TO CONFER IN REGARD TO HANDLING OF 1908 CROP.

Meeting Will Probably be Held This Week--Some Action Taken.

STAND BY THE ASSOCIATION.

Members of County Executive Committee Denounce False Reports Concerning Organization.

The Hopkins county Executive Committee of the Planters' Protective Association met at the court house in Madisonville Saturday afternoon in pursuance to the call of the chairman, and all of the districts were represented at the session. The meeting was presided over by Chairman Bradley Wilson.

The first business of the meeting was the hearing of a lengthy report of the plans of the Planters' protective Association for the ensuing year, which received the hearty approval of the entire body.

A special committee was appointed, consisting of W. L. Harris, J. C. Forrell and Joe Parish, who are to work in conjunction with Chairman Bradley Wilson on a proposition made with A. B. Jarvis, of Henderson, in regard to the 1909 crop. The committee and Mr. Jarvis will probably have a meeting this week and arrange all details.

One of the most important transactions of the meeting was the unanimous adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, That we hereby express our unbounded confidence and unwavering loyalty to the Planters' Protective Association. We condemn the unwarranted and false reports that fill the subsidized press of the country about the threatened secession from our ranks. We are ready and willing to stand by our board of directors and officers in their management of the affairs of our association, and denounce all reports to the contrary as false, and we here by state that we believe these reports are sent out for the sole purpose of crippling the association, which has led the fight against our common enemy, the Tobacco Trust.

Hopkins county is the border county between two associations and we therefore realize the necessary for a closer union and more thorough understanding between them. Our Board of Directors have already been handicapped on the sale of the 1908 crop by the fact that they are not acting independently of each other, the one advocating sales in the hogheads, the other in the loose form. Looking to this closer union, we respectfully recommend to our Board of Directors that they send regular accredited delegates to the next meeting of the Union Tobacco Society to be held in Louisville Thursday, Jan. 21, 1909.

The meeting then adjourned to meet again at the court house next Saturday afternoon when other matters of the society will be discussed and acted upon.

CASH IN ADVANCE

And Stop When Time Is Out System Adopted,

The Publisher of the Crittenden RECORD-PRESS has Decided to Adopt the Cash-in-Advance and Stop-When-Time-is-Out Policy on All Subscriptions for the Following Reasons.

FIRST—The post-office regulations require us to stop the paper when the subscriber becomes nine months in arrears. We find that this requires constant watchfulness and when these subscriptions are stopped, the amounts due us are practically lost to us because we can not see the people personally and collect, and they do not find it convenient to call or remit, and in a short while the thing is forgotten.

SECOND—Because perhaps one half our subscribers tell us to stop when the time is out and the other half tell us to keep on sending the paper. It is impossible for our clerk to remember who wants it stopped and who wants it sent on, and confusion and in many cases mistakes and ill feeling occur.

THIRD—Because everything we buy we have to pay cash for and our employees have to have their money every Saturday night. The cost of newspaper production is heavily increasing and it takes cash to keep things going.

FOURTH—Because we have now on our books exceeding $4,000 due us on subscriptions, nearly every cent of which is good but is so scattered over the country that it is impossible for us to collect it when we need it most. We send out names occasionally and many respond promptly, while the majority do not, because they do not find it convenient just at the time and the matter is deferred. Finally the amount runs up to $3, $4, $5, $6 or $7—and then in many cases the subscriber can't pay and we have finally to stop the paper and lose this amount, when to have paid $1 at the beginning of each year would have been easy and satisfactorily to both sides.

We give this notice in ample time for all subscribers to adjust their accounts. We want every subscriber to remain with us and believe it will be far more satisfactory to all concerned. Time was when the circulation of the RECORD-PRESS was small, and we knew personally almost every subscriber.

Now we furnish a paper much larger and better for the same price. It costs us nearly three times as much to furnish the present paper as it did a few years back. We cannot afford to carry on our book $4,000 in past due subscription accounts and we believe every reasonable man will agree with us.

On January 30th, 1909, the New System Will be Put Into Effect. On that Date All Past Due Subscriptions Will be Stopped and thereafter all Subscriptions will be Stopped Promptly at Expiration.

This is fair to everybody and is made necessary by reason of the postal regulations and sound business policy, as well as justice to all Our Subscribers

THE CRITTENDEN RECORD-PRESS.

STRICKEN MESSINA A PLACE OF GREAT NATURAL BEAUTY

Said to Have Been Founded in the Eighth Century B. C.—Has Been Frequently Victim of the Vicissitudes of War—Was Flourishing Town in Middle Ages.

CALAMITIES WHICH HAVE HAPPENED TO MESSINA.

B. C.
463—Captured by fugitives from Samos and Miletus.
472—Surrendered to Athenians.
396—Entirely destroyed by Carthaginians.
276—Seized by Hannibal.
A. D.
1189—Attacked by Richard Coeur de Lion.
1282—Besieged by Charles, duke of Anjou.
1672-78—Scene of a great revolution between Democrats and adherents of Don Juan of Austria.
1678—Abandoned by the French. Population reduced from 120,000 to 12,000.
1746—Visited by fearful plague; 40,000 people died.
1783—Almost wiped out by earthquake.
1854—Cholera carried away 16,000 inhabitants.
1908—Earthquake again felt; great damage.

Unfortunate Messina, the victim of the recent frightful catastrophe, is thus described by a traveler:

Messina, Sicily, population 150,000, is next to Palermo, the most important city in Sicily. It is situated in the northwest corner of the island on the Strait of Messina.

Among the leading buildings are the Municipal palace, the convent of San Gregorio, which contains a museum of valuable relics, buildings of the university, which is attended by 600 students, and a municipal hospital. The outskirts and environs are delightful, affording magnificent views of the sea, as well as of Mount Etna. On the west rises the former fort of Castellaccio, and not far away to the south is Fort Guazzara, on a historic spot. The new Campo Santo is beautiful, with its graceful Greek colonnades and wonderful views. The Telegrafo—the summit of a pass near Messina—is much visited for its scenery. Here was supposed to be Charybdis of the familiar legend, opposite Scylla, on the Calabrian coast.

Founded 800 B. C.

Messina is a town of great antiquity, its foundation being ascribed to rates from Cumae in the eighth century B. C., when it was known as Zancle (a sickle), in allusion to the shape of its harbor.

At the end of the fifth century B. C. the town was occupied by fugitives from Samos and Miletus, and it soon after passed to Anaxilas, the tyrant of Rhegium, who introduced there Messenians from the Peloponnese, by whom the name of the city was changed to Messina.

After the death of Anaxilas Messina became a republic and maintained that status until its destruction by the Carthaginians during their wars with Dionysius of Syracuse at the beginning of the fourth century B. C. It was rebuilt by Dionysius, but soon fell again into the hands of the Carthaginians, who were finally expelled by Timoleon in B. C. 343.

Once Belonged to Rome.

During the war between Apollonius of Syracuse and Carthage, Messina sided with the Carthaginians. The first Punic war left Messina in the possession of Rome, and the town subsequently attained considerable commercial importance.

In A. D. 31 the town was taken by the Saracens, and in 1061 was conquered by the Normans. The town became a flourishing seat of trade in the middle ages, and received important privileges from Charles I. of Spain, which added greatly to its prosperity. During the struggle between the aristocratic faction, or Merli, and the democratic faction, or Mavizai, the senate, in 1674, appealed for aid to the French, who occupied the city, but soon abandoned it, after having defeated the combined fleets of Spain and Holland.

Left in the hands of the Spaniards, the city was deprived of its political liberties and soon lost its commercial importance. The plague of 1743 and the earthquake of 1783 carried off a considerable part of its population. In 1860 the place was occupied by Garibaldi and in 1861 it became a part of united Italy.

Catania Third City in Sicily.

Catania is the capital of the province of Catania, and the third largest city in Sicily, being outranked in population by Palermo and Messina. It has 145,000 inhabitants. In front of the cathedral is a fountain with an ancient statue of an elephant, made of lava, bearing an Egyptian granite obelisk.

The chief attraction is Mount Etna, which may be seen to good advantage from the tower of San Nicola and from the Villa Bellini.

The Benedictine monastery of San Nicola, formerly one of the most beautiful in Europe, was destroyed by an earthquake in 1693 and rebuilt by 1735. The institution was suppressed in 1866.

Its grand baroque church contains a famous organ by Donato del Piano, with five keyboards, 72 stops, and 2,816 pipes; the museum contains antiquities in pottery, bronze and marble, medieval armor and natural history specimens; the library contains 20,000 volumes and 300 MSS.; and the observatory is associated with that on Mount Etna.

Foundation Ascribed to Greeks.

The classic Catania was founded by Greeks from Chalcis about B. C. 733, and soon became prosperous. Here, in the sixth century, B. C., died Stesichorus, who created the chorus of the Greek drama, and the situation of whose tomb is said to have given name to the Piazza Stesichorus.

Reggio, across the strait of Messina from the city of Messina, is the capital of Calabria. The city suffered severely in the earthquake of three years ago, and appears to get the full force of every tremor that shakes the region of Calabria.

A Bad Back is Always Worse in The Morning. Marion People Are Find Relief

A back that aches all day and causes discomfort at night is usually worse in the morning. Makes you feel as if you hadn't slept at all.

Can't cure a bad back until you cure the kidneys. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys—makes you feel better, work better, rest better and sleep better.

Permanent cures in Marion prove the merit of Doan's.

Jane Byford, Marion, Ky., says: "I have been greatly benefited through the use of Doan's Kidney Pills and can highly recommend them to others. My kidney trouble was brought on by exposure together with a great deal of hard work. I was unable to rest well at night on account of the dull pains through my back and in the morning I would arise feeling very stiff. When I stopped, sharp twinges would catch me and cause me intense suffering. I was easily tired and occasionally felt very nervous. Dizzy spells also bothered me and I often suffered from headaches. I knew by the sediment in my secretions that the kidneys were disordered and that fact that I had to arise often during the night also proved this to be the case. Since using Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at HAYNES & TAYLOR'S drug store, I have improved a great deal and have no hesitancy in endorsing them as a remedy that acts up to representations." For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

HOPE—THE SOUL'S ANCHOR

By REV. A. C. DIXON, D. D., Pastor of the Chicago Ave. (Moody) Church, Chicago.

"That by two immutable things in which it is impossible for God to lie, we might have a strong consolation who have fled for refuge to lay hold upon the hope set before us; which hope we have as an anchor of the soul, both sure and fast."—Hebrews, 6:19-20.

There is an ancient legend that the gods filled a box with blessings and gave it to Pandora, the first woman, for safe-keeping. She opened it incautiously and everything in it escaped except hope. But Pandora with hope in her box was richer than she could have been if every other blessing had remained without hope. Wealth without hope is sorrow. Pleasure without hope is pain. Health without hope is disease. Life without hope is death. Light without hope is darkness. Prosperity without hope is adversity. Take hope out of the world and you have blotted out the sun that rules the day and the stars that rule the night. Hopelessness turns midday into midnight.

The Christian has a threefold joy coming from the past, present and future. Paul said: "I am now ready. I have finished my course. I have kept the faith. Henceforth, 'The now' of the present is like a bridge buttressed on one side by the experience of the past and on the other by the hope of the future. He is strong enough for martyrdom in the present because the memory of the past means victory and the hope of the future means glory. The end of time with him is the dawn of eternity. The Basis of Hope.

"By two immutable things in which it was impossible for God to lie." My hope is based upon the veracity of God. God has promised, and, if he should break a promise he would cease to be God. There is one exception to the scripture "With God all things are possible." It is impossible for him to lie. And this makes it impossible for me to be disappointed if I base my hope upon his word. God is conscientious. He does all he says he will do. David Livingstone said: "My God is a gentleman. He keeps his word." Basing my hope upon the veracity of God is equal to saying that it is based upon God himself.

The Certainty of Hope. It is sure. There is no doubt about it. Doubt is the dagger that kills hope at one thrust. "I hope so" sometimes means "I guess so," but it is a misuse of a noble word. Quaint Joseph Irons insists that knowledge is more than hope and that every Christian should know rather than hope that he is saved. "Hope, hope, hoping," he says, "is equivalent to hope, hope, hoping," and it means a lame, limping Christianity. But Paul says: "We are saved by hope." Hope is an anchor of the soul that is sure. Hope includes knowledge. I know that I am saved and therefore hope for the "salvation yet to be revealed." My experience of faith in Christ and the new life which has come into my soul is a matter of knowledge. All this comes through my knowing God in Christ Jesus.

Hope is knowledge illumined and glorified. Hope is assurance radiant. Hope is certainty with its face toward the sunrise.

The Steadfastness of Hope.

"Both sure and steadfast." It is the anchor that holds the ship against wind and current. A dying Christian sailor said: "The anchor holds." He saw himself on his vessel in the storm, drifting before wind and wave toward the breakers. The anchor is cast out and for several minutes there is painful suspense. Has the anchor found good grounding or is it dragging with the ship? Suddenly the cable is taut, the ship veers around and becomes steady. The anchor out of sight has gripped the rock and a strong cable holds the entire weight of the ship, cargo and crew. The winds howl and the current swirls along at a rapid pace, the waves beat upon the sides and dash over the decks but the ship is safe because the anchor holds. Thus hope is "the anchor of the soul both sure and steadfast." It holds the soul against the winds and currents that would drive it upon the breakers. Its grounding is in the veracity of God, and its cable is the promise and oath twisted into one mighty rope that can hold steady any ship that ever sailed on life's ocean. The howling storm may tear into shreds our philosophical sails, but the anchor of hope holds the soul. Said a great man, "I cannot say that I have so lived that I am not afraid to die, but I can say that I have so trusted Christ that I am not afraid to die." Better not afraid to live. Fear of men which we call shame is a current which drifts many a soul to ruin. "Hope maketh not ashamed." While Christian and Hopeful were crossing the river, Christian was full of fears, but Hopeful said: "Be of good cheer, my brother, I feel the bottom and it is good." Hope gives good bottom all through life as well as in death. It conquers shame and fear.

Answer This Question

When shown positive and reliable proof that a certain remedy had cured numerous cases of female ills, wouldn't any sensible woman conclude that the same remedy would also benefit her if suffering with the same trouble?

Here are two letters which prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Red Banks, Miss.—"Words are inadequate to express what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I suffered from a female disease and weakness which the doctors said was caused by a fibroid tumor, and I commenced to think there was no help for me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made me a well woman after all other means had failed. My friends are all asking what has helped me so much, and I gladly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Willie Edwards.

Hampstead, Maryland—"Before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was weak and nervous, and could not be on my feet half a day without suffering. The doctors told me I never would be well without an operation, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done more for me than all the doctors, and I hope this valuable medicine may come into the hands of many more suffering women."—Mrs. Joseph E. Dandy.

We will pay a handsome reward to any person who will prove to us that these letters are not genuine and truthful—or that either of these women were paid in any way for their testimonials, or that the letters are published without their permission, or that the original letter from each did not come to us entirely unsolicited.

What more proof can any one ask?

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

A SEVERE REBUKE

Only Once Before Has a President Been So Treated.

Washington, Jan. 11.—Rebuke to President Roosevelt in the House of Representatives by a vote of 212 to 35; rebuke to President Roosevelt in the Senate by a vote of 57 to 14. For the second time in the history of our government, the House of representatives has laid upon the table a message from the President of the United States. The first President to thus be rebuked was Andrew Johnson; the second is Theodore Roosevelt. John's offense was a recommendation which amounted, in the opinion of the House, to repudiation of the obligations of the government. Mr. Roosevelt's offense is impugning of the motives of members in voting for a change in the law regulating the secret service.

White-McConnell.

On Tuesday of last week Mrs Lilley Duval McConnell went to Evansville ostensibly to do some shopping. She was met there by Mrs Timmons, who assisted her in making her selection for an event which the salesladies averred must be of more than passing importance.

Wednesday Mrs McConnell's brother went to Evansville and later the trio was joined by Mr Aubrey Timmons and Mr J R White, both of Sebree, and who were accompanied also by a minister and a licensee for the marriage of Mr White and Mrs McConnell which was solemnized at high noon at the Vendome Hotel.

Immediately after the ceremony the bridal party sat down to a sumptuous wedding dinner at the Vendome and later left for the groom's home at Sebree, where he is engaged in the jewelry business.

The bride is the daughter of Mr and Mrs A J Duval, of this city, and is a handsome young woman with many enviable traits of character. Her many friends here where she was born and grew into womanhood, will be glad to hear of her good fortune, and will congratulate the groom in winning her as his bride.

ITALIAN CITIES WHERE LOSS OF LIFE WAS HEAVIEST.

Cities in which loss of life was heaviest were as follows:
Messina, population 100,000; wrecked by shock and swept by tidal wave.
Reggio, population 50,000; destroyed.
Catania, population 140,000; in ruins.
Casano, population 6,700; in ruins.
Cosenza, population 21,000; nearly all dead.
Geminara, small village, destroyed.
Scilla, population 7,800; in ruins.
Paterno, population 24,000; in ruins.
Vittoria, population 32,000; badly wrecked.
Mare, population 12,800; half destroyed.
Riposto, population 7,000; in ruins.
All, Minco, Patti and Castoreale, Sicilian towns; all badly damaged, with heavy loss of life.
Palmit, Bagnara, San Giovanni and Cannitello, Calabrian villages; all in ruins.

The portion of Italy affected by the recent earthquake is in the most convulsion-stricken region of the globe. The main area of disturbance was in Calabria, though cities on the island of Sicily were shaken and a tidal wave inundated that island's sea coast. Notwithstanding the fact that since the beginning of history the ground of Calabria has been known to have the habit of opening as if to swallow up its inhabitants, the region has always been well populated. Nearly a million

The calamity in Calabria gives fresh interest to the elaborate catalogue of earthquakes to which Maj. de Montessus de Balore has devoted years of labor, and which he completed a few months ago. It includes no fewer than 130,000 distinct shocks of which trustworthy details have been preserved, and indicates with some approach to scientific accuracy how the manifestations of seismic activity are distributed over the earth's surface. The table goes back as far as authentic records are obtainable, but the preponderance of the records refers to shocks which have occurred within the past 50 years. Here is the summary of Maj. de Balore's statistics:

Area	Earthquakes
Scandinavia	66
British Isles	1,128
France	2,738
Spain and Portugal	4,854
Switzerland	1,896
Italy	37,672
Holland and North Germany	2,328
Sicily	4,831
Greece	10,926
Russia	259
Asia Minor	4,431
India	813
Japan	7,562
Africa	179
Atlantic Islands	1,704
United States, Pacific Coast	4,447
Atlantic Coast	807
Mexico	5,586
Central America	2,738
West Indies	2,561
South America	6,081
Java	2,155
Australia and Tasmania	10
New Zealand	1,925

It will be noticed that Sicily, for which the records go back 3,000 years, has been shaken very little compared with its neighbor Italy.

Seismic Convulsions.

The most shaken countries of the world are Italy, Japan, Greece, South America (the Pacific coast), Java, Sicily and Asia Minor. The lands most free from seismic convulsions are Af-

"Why I Prefer Southdowns."

We clip from the Practical Farmer the following article written by Jas. B. Carter, of Levisa, on which he drew third prize of $8.00.

"I prefer the Southdown, as I think they fatten more readily, make better mothers, and the lambs bring better price with us. I prefer to have lambs come in January and February, for several reasons. First I can give them more attention. Second, the early lambs always bring the best price with us, and I lose fewer early lambs than with late ones. I find my sheep do well on most any of the grasses, white or red clover, timothy or red top. So I change them frequently, as they need changing from one field to another. I try to have my ewes go into winter quarters in good flesh; what most farmers would call fat. In the early fall and before they begin to lose in flesh, I either turn them in a fresh stalk field or feed them clover or pea vine hay with a small amount of oat straw, if I have it. This ration is kept up until an until lambing time, which is usually January 15th. Then I leave off the oats and feed ear corn broken into bread flat-bottomed troughs, allowing one-half ear per head, with all the nice bright shock fodder or clover hay they will eat reasonably clean. At night I feed all the pea hay they will eat. When the ground is frozen, so they won't tramp the fodder under foot, it is feed some distance from the barn, in order to give the pregnant ewes more exercise. The pea vine and clover hay are fed in racks, spaced three inches, placed directly over the broad flattened troughs. I prefer the flat bottoms to the V-shaped ones. These racks are made the same width as the troughs, to catch the leaves and fine hay that falls through the rack. Don't feed a sheep musty or damaged hay and expect to eat it. Up to this time my sheep are allowed free access to a good dry ventilated barn, with the doors standing open all the time except in case of severe weather or rain and snow storms. Great care should be taken not to scare or worry the sheep, and they should have only the kindest treatment. Next comes the care of young lambs. Here, in my opinion, lies the failure of a great many in the sheep business. Before the lambs begin to come, I see that the barn is well bedded with good dry straw or litter; that all the doors fit close, so that in case of severe weather I can close the barn up nice and warm. I have several hinged panels made of light materials (weather boards will do all right) 34 feet high and 5 feet long, provided with screw eyes and hooks, the same as are used on screen doors. By commencing in one corner of the barn, two panels makes a pen 34x5 feet. In this pen or lamb hurdle, I place the little lamb and its mother, and keep them there for a day or two, giving her the best of care in the way of food and water. I always place the ewe to herself if I have reason to believe there will soon be a new lamb. This will usually be indicated to the observant shepherd. I always see that the ewe has plenty of milk for her new born lamb, and that it gets it. If she does not have sufficient milk, I then heat skim milk to blood heat and feed from a bottle with rubber nipple. In case a lamb becomes chilled by being born on the cold ground or otherwise, I put it in a tub of hot water, as hot as I can bear my hand in. After the bath I rub dry with cloth, then feed a little fresh milk or sweet cream diluted with water. If a ewe loses her lamb, which they rarely ever do, I skin the dead lamb immediately and put its skin on fit snug and nice. Now place the lamb and its foster mother in one of the pens described, and she will adopt it as her own. After twelve or twenty-four hours the skin should be removed, the length of time it is left on, depending on how willingly the foster mother adopts the lamb. I have worked this successfully with lambs three or four weeks old. If a ewe fails to own her lamb I put her head in a stanchion and keep her so until she does. That heats tying with a rope.

When lambs are three weeks old I begin to feed them a little wheat brand and clover hay, using V-shaped troughs. Later I add all the cracked corn they will eat. I dock my lambs at from two to three weeks old. To keep up my breeding stock I select my earliest and best, as they make the largest and best ewes, and are more likely to breed early than late ones. I prefer to have my young ewes drop their lambs at two years old. I sell my ewes when they begin to get old and hard to winter. Every year, or two years at most, I change my buck, try each year to get a better one. I think one good vigorous buck sufficient for flock of 40 ewes. In selecting my buck I try to get one coming nearest my ideal—low, broad, heavy body, with heavy legs. This season I have over 50 lambs dropped, and have had but one to die. Each ewe in the flock has either two or two lambs, except one. Many good points in managing my farm have been obtained by reading farm papers, and especially The Practical Farmer,--J. B. CARTER, Levisa, Ky.

CATARRH CURED

No Cure, No Pay, is a Most Generous Offer.

To get an antiseptic strong enough to kill catarrh germs, and not destroy the tissues of the membrane at the same time, has been a problem which was never solved until the discovery of Hyomei (pronounced High-o-mo).

Hyomei is prepared from eucalyptus, the most powerful yet healing antiseptic known. Breathe it through the inhaler over the inflamed and germ-ridden membrane four or five a day, and in a few days the germs will disappear.

The inflamed condition will go, too, and the snuffing, hawking and offensive breath, and the discharge of mucous and crusts in the nose will cease.

Then why should any catarrh sufferer hesitate, when Haynes & Taylor has such faith in Hyomei that they offer to return your money if after a fair trial Hyomei does not cure catarrh.

A complete Hyomei outfit, including the inhaler, costs $1.00, and extra bottles, if afterwards needed, cost but 50 cents. Hyomei also cures asthma, croup, sore throat, colds or grip.

Another one, selecting a twin from the ewe least able to carry two lambs. Now, this will work successfully every time if properly done. Skin the dead lamb as you would a mutton, except legs and head. Skin head, cutting off the ears, rip legs down to knees, leaving a place to put the live lamb's legs through, the sprinkle a little salt on the flesh side of skin and fit snugly on lamb you wish to adopt. It may be necessary to take a few stitches to make the skin

Beech Bargis Gets Drunk And Is In Jail Once More.

Jackson, Ky., Jan. 5 With Wallace Cole, a companion, Beech Bargis, who yesterday was released on a $25,000 bond to await trial for the murder of his father, Judge James Hargis, was arrested, disarmed and jailed tonight in this place.

It was charged by the witnesses before the police judge, that Hargis had been drunk and disorderly and that he had fired many shots before the store of County Judge S. S. Tambles.

When Mrs. Hargis, his mother, heard of the fresh difficulty, she notified the town marshal to come to her and that she would pay the fine. Beech decided to resist the charges, however, which are of carrying concealed and deadly weapons and disorderly conduct.

and a half of cheerful, reckless people lived there. The Appennine mountains run through the region for a distance of 160 miles, considerably reducing the area amenable to tillage, but the valleys and plains are among the most fertile anywhere in the world, yielding in abundance a variety of crops. The neighboring fisheries are important. In respect of the property damage inflicted and the number of lives extinguished, as well as in respect of the extent of the disturbance, the earthquake far eclipses the great disasters of its type, such as that which destroyed Lisbon in 1755 and that which visited the western coast of South America in August, 1906.

Region Always in Turmoil.

Probably no part of the earth of equal fertility, population and historic note has suffered more severely from earthquakes and volcanic eruptions than this part of the Mediterranean basin. From the beginning of recorded history Stromboli has seldom been quiet. Vesuvius has been frequently in eruption, and Etna is always growling and periodically is in violent action.

With or without eruptions from these volcanoes the region has felt disastrous earthquakes in almost every century since history began to be written. The eruption of Vesuvius which overwhelmed Pompeii and Herculaneum in 79 A. D. is most spoken of because of the relics of antiquity which it so strangely preserved, but within the last eight centuries there have been many earthquakes thereabouts which caused great loss of life and property.

For instance, Catania, which is again visited, is said to have lost 15,000 people by earthquake in 1137 and to have been wholly destroyed, with a loss of 18,000 lives, in September, 1693. By this earthquake 54 Sicilian cities and towns and 300 villages were reported wrecked, with a total loss of 100,000 lives.

rica, Australia, Russia, Siberia, Scandinavia and Canada. As a rule, where earthquakes are most frequent they are most severe. But to this general statement there are exceptions. In Spain shocks, though less numerous, being often very disastrous. Loss of life in many cases depends, however, on the intensity of the earth movement. Numerically, also, France has registered more seismic tremors than Spain and Portugal, but France in historic times has experienced no earthquake disaster approaching the havoc wrought by the one calamity at Lisbon.

Ancient and Modern Times.

Perhaps the most striking difference between the antique and the modern worlds appears in their differences of social and governmental attitude toward such disasters. We really know more, thanks to the Younger Pliny's account of his uncle's death, about the destruction of Pompeii and Herculaneum and what was done about it than we know of any similar disaster for 1,000 years afterwards.

The elder Pliny was a man of science, who happened to be in command of the naval station near Naples. He got out a vessel and went as near as he could to the lava flow to observe it--so near that he was suffocated by the fumes. Incidentally he picked up some fugitives from the water and along the beach. His nephew records that as an evidence of his humanity. But he does not appear to have thought of exerting his large official powers for relief of suffering. He went to his death not to aid distress but to add to his own knowledge.

Today any public official who did not exert himself to the utmost to relieve distress would be forever disgraced. That is the difference between a Christian civilization, with all its faults, and one which, with all its merits, was not Christian.

SHAKE IT IN BOTTLE.

Tells The Readers of This Paper How to Prepare The Mixture at

Now is the time when the doctor gets busy, and the patent medicine manufacturers reap the harvest, unless great care is taken to dress warmly and keep the feet dry. This is the advice of an old eminent authority, who says that Rheumatism and Kidney trouble weather is here, and also tells what to do in case of an attack.

Get from any good prescription pharmacy one-half ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion, one ounce Compound Uparagon, three ounces Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla. Mix by shaking in a bottle and take a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime.

Just try this simple home-made mixture at the first sign of Rheumatism, or if your back aches or you feel that the kidneys are not acting just right. This is said to be a splendid kidney regulator, and almost certain remedy for all forms of Rheumatism, which is caused by uric acid in the blood, which the kidneys fail to filter out. Any one can easily prepare this at home and at small cost.

Druggists in this town and vicinity, when shown the prescription, should let them cure either sight, or, if not, will refund the cost.

DISEASE ADDS TO HORROR

American Ambassador Presents Ship Loaded With Supplies to King, Who Says Americans are Always First.

Rome, Jan. 6.—The report from Messina that the epidemic has been on there since the authorities with unyielding persistence here that the disease is not a new one, but that it is a disease which has been known for centuries, adds to the horror of the disaster. It is well known that this disease has been known for centuries, and that it is a disease which has been known for centuries.

According to well known medical authorities it is the disease that has been responsible for the destruction of a whole city, and the existing cause is now to some extent known, and the suggestion it affords for food. At most perfect conditions prevail for the propagation of Messina.

King Victor Emmanuel today received Ambassador Grissom, who represented the American Relief Committee, representing the American people. The American Relief Committee is loaded with provisions and medical supplies and is ready to proceed to the straits of Messina. The King was greatly pleased and said that the Americans were always first. His majesty advised the Ambassador as to where the steamer should proceed and as to the best means of distributing its supplies to the unfortunate.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 5.—Thirty-five indictments against Judge Charles E. Booe, late clerk in the State Auditor's office, were returned in open court this morning by the Franklin county grand jury. The indictments charge forgery within a forgery and defrauding the state with false vouchers, each of which is a felony.

GREATEST TRAGEDY THAT HAS BEFALLEN CHRISTIAN WORLD

Magnitude of Calamity in Calabria and Sicily Is Unprecedented—Entire Region Completely Destroyed—Whole Face of Country and the Coast Line Altered.

The earthquake which has devastated the Italian department of Calabria and Sicily has wrought the greatest tragedy which ever has befallen the Christian world.

It is colossal without precedent. Nothing previously known in European history can be compared with it. A whole region has been destroyed. That corner of Italy on which nature seemed to smile, Messina and Reggio, are heaps of ruins under which lie buried thousands of corpses.

All the country along the Straits of Messina has suffered. Lower down the coast the sea rushed with terrific violence into Giarre, Riposto, Iorgon and Giovanul, sweeping away houses, ships, fishing boats and human beings. All the fishing boats at sea have disappeared.

At Palma and Egnara the dead are counted by hundreds and the injured of the strait must have been more violent, for scarcely one stone remains on another in that flourishing city of only two days ago.

Where a few days ago stood the homes and works of men and bustle and life, there is nothing but chaotic rocks and earth.

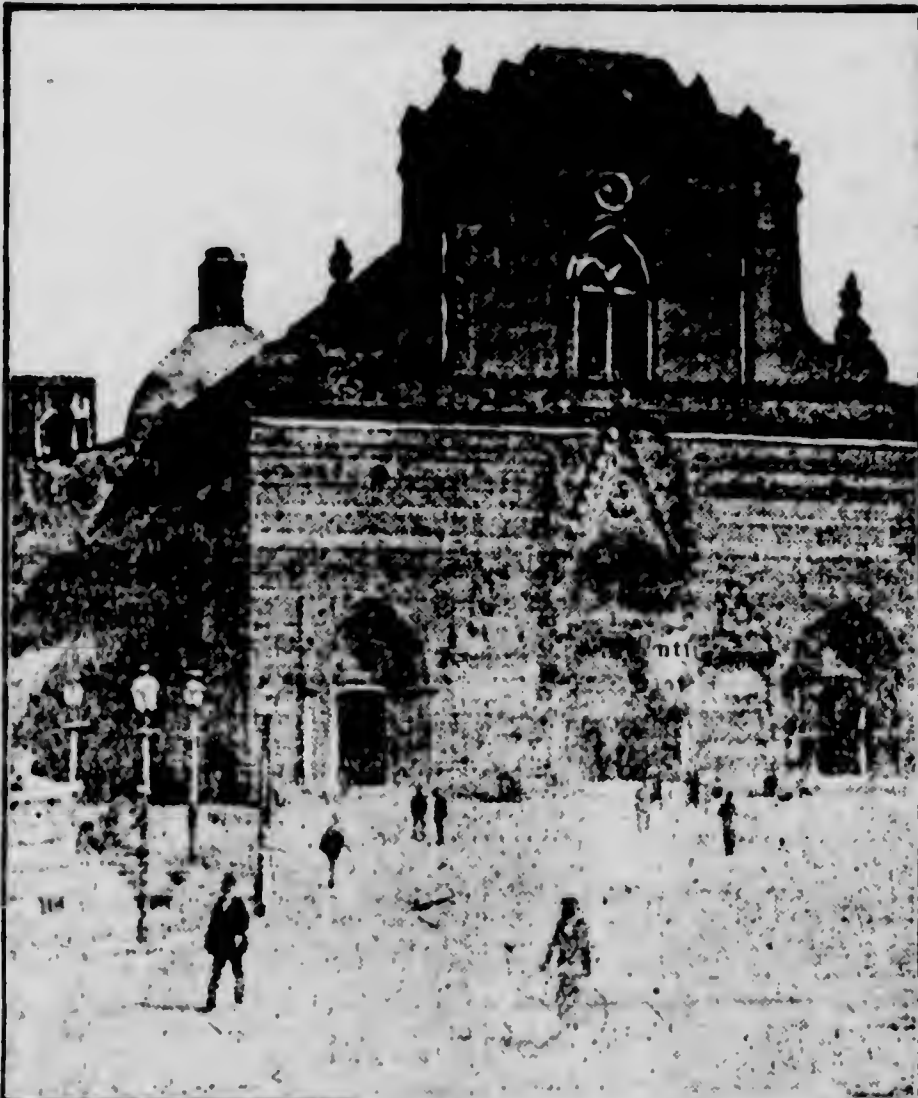

The city had vanished as completely as an Alabian's palace under the magician's spell.

Country of Many Languages. Calabria has one and one-third million inhabitants. The inhabitants speak Greek or Albanian dialects of an antique Italian.

Visit Stricken Subjects.

As King Humbert won the admiration of his loyal people by his visit to the hospitals of Naples during the cholera epidemic, so has Victor Emmanuel, through his emulation of his father's act of bravery. In 1905 Vic-

CATHEDRAL AT MESSINA.

Messina was a city of 100,000 inhabitants, and is said to have been founded under the name of Zancle, in 688 B. C. It was the principal port of Sicily and one of the most important in the world. It was situated on a narrow strip of land, and was surrounded by water on three sides. The city was built on a hill, and the cathedral was the most prominent building in the city.

by thousands. Throughout the province of Calabria the villages were destroyed.

Completely Destroyed. Messina and Reggio are in ruins. The towns of Naxos, Sylla, Maletto, Polistano, Riposto and Iorgon have been destroyed, as has the town of Giarre, in Calabria. Canillo has been washed off the map. Nearly every town along the coast of Sicily for miles south of Messina was engulfed by the sea.

The earthquake's terrific might transformed the face of Sicily; rivers were dried up or their course changed; hills disappeared; vast crevices are yawning in the earth; the country is desolated.

The destruction of property cannot be as great as at San Francisco, for Messina and Reggio, the two principal cities destroyed, were not rich or magnificent from the metropolitan point of view. As a great calamity of nature, however, this disaster is on a far vaster scale than the California phenomenon.

Face of Country Altered.

The whole face of the country and the coast line have been altered. Even Sicily and Calabria have changed the positions they have occupied since Aeneas' legendary voyage.

The three provinces where the greatest damage was done were Messina and Canillo, in Sicily, and Reggio di Calabria, on the mainland. They comprise about 4,400 square miles. The rock of Calabria now blocks the entrance to the strait of Messina.

Several hundred persons perished and much damage was done outside of these provinces, but within them the devastation was so complete that scarcely a human habitation remains.

All accounts now agree that the time occupied by nature's slingshot spasms was but 32 seconds.

Some minutes later a great wave completed the havoc in the ill-fated coast towns.

Shock a Fearful One.

The violence of the shock seems to have been unprecedented except by volcanic eruptions within a limited area.

The buildings of Messina were merely shaken down—their foundations merely were shaken from beneath them to the side or to the other, until they toppled from the perpendicular and fell in ruins alongside their original sites.

That was the experience of Messina. That of Reggio, on the opposite side

Stomach Muscles In Old Age

How Old People May Retain or Restore Good Health

Usually the bowels are not so active in old age as in youth. Just as the eyes grow dim, the skin wrinkles, the hair falls out, the skin loses its elasticity, the stomach muscles show their age, so the internal organs show their age. It is not so, but it is true.

However, we are not alone in a person whose age is advanced. There are many who are old, but who are not old in the mind. They are old in the body, but young in the mind. They are old in the body, but young in the mind. They are old in the body, but young in the mind.

There is a remedy for this. It is a remedy that is old, but it is not old in the mind. It is a remedy that is old, but it is not old in the mind. It is a remedy that is old, but it is not old in the mind. It is a remedy that is old, but it is not old in the mind.

DRAPES MIRROR WITH CLOTH

Has Also Been Known to Punish Quite a Meal After Some Sort of Fashion—Woman Believed to Possess Supernatural Powers.

St. Louis.—A mischief-loving spirit has taken possession of William Korster's house here. At least that is what they all say. And they say it because umbrellas are mysteriously opened and made to fly about; shoe-strings are untied and wound around broomsticks; tables and chairs are moved about and other weird things are performed. All these are in the line of physical manifestations of power from the other side, but when it is stated that this particular spirit makes large quantities of food to disappear then it is different again. Because that is strangely material.

However, doubters and believers gather about the Korster house each night to see what they can see or to hear what they can hear. Explanations of these peculiar manifestations have been many and varied, but the most generally accepted seems to be that Mrs. Korster, as well as her four-year-old nephew, possess supernatural powers, unknown to themselves, and that their ability in this direction has been responsible for the eccentric movements of tables and other inanimate things.

The fun started the other afternoon, when a clock suddenly chimed the hour of four, when it was 1:30, despite the fact that no clock is in the house or near it. Next day a table showed a most unruly inclination to follow Mrs. Korster into the kitchen, and was only balked by being unable to get through the door. A red tablecloth, carefully ironed and folded away, was found covering a mirror in the next room, and on being refolded and placed on the bed again, was put around the glass on four distinct occasions, until the family gave up trying to control it.

More as a joke than anything else, Mrs. Korster had a meal placed on the kitchen table, consisting of a piece of bread, some ham, a tomato, and a bottle of wine, with a napkin stuffed in the wine glass. When the family returned to the room, which could not have been entered in the meantime, the ham was eaten, the bread munched, the tomato cut in half, and the wine half drunk, while the napkin was stuck in the half-full glass.

In amazement the family told the neighbors, and on a recent night, as a crowd was gathered, Mrs. Korster suddenly felt herself grasped by the ankle, while her shoelace was torn from her shoe, to appear later neatly tied around the broomstick.

Attention to the new location of the hysterical agent was only attracted by the fact that the broom commenced a violent tapping against the stove, banging four times with a pause and then four times more.

Burglar Locks Himself In. Latest News.—A masked burglar entered the dressing-room of Mrs. Newbold Morris at Brook Lawn and locked the door on the inside to prevent interruption while he was getting his things together.

Next morning John Lakert, a boy, found a black bag full of gold and silver trinkets. Later, when he heard of the burglary, he informed Mr. Morris. With the exception of the top of a small silver jar, all the stolen goods were recovered.

CHAPEL HILL.

Another milestone has been reached; another revolution of the wheel of time has been completed; the pleasures and disappointments, the smiles and tears; sunshine and shadows of 1908—all these have passed and gone in to the eternal past, and while the same opportunities will never come again, let us hope the new year will offer us still greater ones, that we may so profit by the experiences of the old year that we may the better know how and when to grasp and make the most of the privileges of the new year. Let us be thankful for the blessings of the old year and to do better work for the rising generation. So we welcome the good year of our Lord 1909.

Now, to the editor of the Record-Press, we wish you a joyful and a bountiful New Year. Hope you may have a good supply of readers of the grand old Press, and that the subscribers will increase in numbers until every man in old Crittenden county will become a subscriber, many in the counties adjoining, as well as all former natives who are scattered throughout the various states of the Union. We believe every one in the county should take his county paper.

On Wednesday night he stayed at the home of George Sisco, who married a niece of Mr. Long. From there with friends and connection, he repaired to the home of Coy Daniel, who is a nephew of Mr. Long, and when the house was well filled, Mr. Noell came with his violin, and with fiddle and organ and singing, Charlie said it made him think of old times. He silently left the house without telling any one where he went. He returned after a time, from down town, with his arms full of candy, oranges, cigars and loaded down with Christmas goods, saying he was Santa Claus. The crowd had all they could eat and went away each one thinking it well to be there. He started for his home on Xmas eve morning and the parting with him was with sadness and tears. Strayed or stolen from Silver Heights, near Winfield, Hughes, a one ear, a very gentle old cart, never known to leave home, with its own accord, has recently disappeared. The parties who discovered it away had been long at work before the sitting of the nitro of the next grand jury set. You need not think that you were not seen on the way. Same small matters get to be taken.

W. N. Rader and family through wife visited Mrs. Franks some days ago.

Your correspondent attended at the funeral of Fred Dan Glarey and we never saw as large a concourse of people at a funeral in our life. The funeral procession was a mile and a half long. While the members of the Farmers Union were sitting in the grave after the interment, a great light flashed through the heavens, followed by a quaking of the earth, startling the large number of persons who saw and heard it.

We have our 'phone back again. It was taken out only because of our being unfortunately crippled up and could not, therefore, attend professional calls and from no other cause, except the accumulation rent fees. Without profit. Give us 3 rings and you have us on the line at once, day or night. We expect to keep it as long as we can pay the cost. If you need a horse doctor, give me—Bob Franks—a call, and we are your "Huckleberry," and your sick horse, mule, cow or dog—though just on the eve of "kicking the bucket"—will be yours, sound as ever, for many good years to come.
